

Javier Auyero

“Environmental Suffering and Poor People's Waiting”

When: Wednesday April 20, 5:30

Where: David Strong Bldg. Rm. C122

Javier Auyero is Joe R. and Teresa Lozano Long Professor of Latin American Sociology at the University of Texas, Austin. He is the author "Poor People's Politics: Peronist Networks and the Legacy of Evita" (Duke, 2001) "Contentious Lives: Two Argentine Women, Two Protests, and the Quest for Recognition" (Duke, 2003), and "Routine Politics and Collective Violence in Argentina: The Gray Zone of State Power" (Cambridge, 2007). His ethnographic work addresses issues of poverty, clientelism, social movements, and protests.

This talk is sponsored by: Social Justice Studies, Latin American Studies, the Department of Sociology, the Department of Anthropology, the Department of Political Science and the Faculty of Social Sciences.