

University of Victoria

ASIAN CANADIAN WORKING GROUP

Presents the Victoria première of the new documentary:

Cedar and Bamboo

4:30 p.m., Tuesday, November 23, 2010

Ceremonial Hall, First Peoples House, UVIC

The Asian Canadian Working Group is proud to present Cedar and Bamboo, a 22-minute documentary that examines the stories of four people of mixed Chinese-Indigenous ancestry: Lil'wat elder Judy Joe; Musqueam elder Howard Grant; and two young people, siblings Jordie and Hannah Yow. Produced by the Chinese Canadian Historical Society (CCHS) of B.C., this film is part of an ongoing project to reconnect Chinese and First Nations communities. Such efforts not only allow people to recover some of their own identities—it introduces everyone to a rich past, and to new beginnings.

Followed by a panel discussion:

'Identities: Past, Present and Future'

With the support of the Chinese Canadian Historical Society of B.C.; the First People's House; the Social Justice Program; the Office of Community Based Research; the Departments of History and Pacific and Asian Studies

The Asian Canadian Working Group promotes Asian Canadian Studies and university—community alliances.

For further information contact: asiancdn@uvic.ca.