

Video found at: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=11j8NFYVc2A>

Starting at 9:40

Participants:

Dr. Carol Eldridge, DNP, RN CNE, NEA-B –Director of Graduate programs at Chamberlain College of Nursing - “C”

Dr. Beverly Malone, PhD, RN, FAAN –National League for Nursing Chief Executive Officer - “B”

Dr. Susan Groenwald, PhD, MSN – Chamberlain National President – “S”

Florentina Tase – student from Chamberlain College of Nursing Master of Science in Nursing program - educator track - “F”

01: C - What impact do you feel you can make as a nursing educator? (sitting hands folded in lap)

02:F-“I wanted to give back to the field of nursing” (quick breath in) “You know I love my profession” “You know it’s, it’s sad that we don’t have as many nurse educators out there to fulfill the need of all the, ah, um, the students that want to become nurses. (C is nodding as F speaks)

03:B – I’d be curious to hear from you, as a student, when you hear about the partnership between Chamberlain and National League for Nursing, ah, what that means to you?

04:F – You know going to Chamberlain I’ve always felt that I was at the forefront of nursing, now that I know that they’re partnering with NLN I mean its just, its prestigious. I’m very proud to be a Chamberlain graduate student and you know I feel that after I graduate, which is in November...

05:C, B, S, & F all laugh

06:F – That I will be proud of my degree that I earned and I know that I’ll be prepared to help students, umm, along their track that I’ve taken as well.

07:C – “We’ve talked about academic progression here and I’m curious when you’ll start your doctoral program since graduation from your master’s degree is so soon. (all laugh)

08:F – “Oh (Laugh)..I hope soon, umm, you know I still want to see where my masters will take me right now, umm, and you know definitely that is in (short pause) in sight for me.

09:B I’m amazed at you because sometimes as nurses we don’t figure that out til very late in our careers.